VOL. 54 — No. 8

American

Red Cross

The National Fund Campaign of the American Red Cross will open on March 1st. The object of this particular drive is collection with Speed. It is essential that the required funds be raised to continue the needed program of Red Cross Services, and we are fully confident that Hancock County will do the usual all time good work for which they have been so outstanding during the war years. However, the plea this year is to please have your contribution on hand so that when you are approached there will be no necessity for a return trip for your collection. Time is precious, and we have only nine days in which to reach our goal, which is $5,100. A very sizable amount, and one that will mean work for those who have volunteered for collections.

The following crews have been named to carry on the work of this campaign:

Mrs. A. P. Smith, Fund Chairman.
Mrs. Doris Rea, Co-Chairman.
Mrs. Frank Kiefer, Publicity.
Mr. Roy Baxter, Treasurer of Campaign.
Mrs. Grady Perkins, Secretary of Campaign.
Mrs. E. C. Carrere, Waveland Chairman.
Mrs. Frank Martin, Cedar Point.
Mrs. Lamar Otis, Logtown, Napoleon, Pearlinton.
Mrs. H. J. Frierson, Aaron Academy.
Mrs. Thigpen, Aaron Academy.
Mrs. Katie Frierson, Aaron Academy.
Mrs. Sam Haas, Kiln.
Mr. Fitzhugh Lee, Leetown, Caesar.

Mrs. Jeannette Williams, Lakeshore, Clermont Harbor.
Mrs. Leo W. Seal, Organizations.
Mrs. B. H. Dresher, Mrs. H. B. Weston—Chairmen for City Schools.
Mrs. Lucy Bell—Chairman of all Colored Organizations.

Attending the Camps and Hospital Council at Gulfport Field on Wednesday, Feb. 20 were Mrs. Leo W. Seal and Mrs. J. B. Goldman. There was an election of officers, and Mrs. L. H. Barksdale, of Pass Christian was elected chairman of the Gulf-coast area, with Mrs. Leo W. Seal of Bay St. Louis, as Vice-Chairman.

A very beautiful and useful quilt was made, by and presented as a gift to the local Red Cross by Mrs. M. L. Brown. It is the desire of the chapter to publicly thank Mrs. Brown for her effort through this medium.

Distinguished Visitors

Bay St. Louis had some distinguished visitors last week when Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Chandler enroute from New Orleans to Miami, stopped for luncheon with Mrs. M. W. Briggs.

Mr. Chandler an English-born portrait painter was commissioned to paint the Big Three of World War II—the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Winston Churchill and Joseph Stalin. The artist who lives in New York and Weatherford, Texas, has recently begun the work on Mr. Churchill's portrait and will go to Moscow to paint Stalin, he is quoted to have said.

Mr. Chandler recently painted the portrait of Mrs. Briggs in San Antonio and which her son, Robert Briggs has in his home and he also painted Mr. Briggs' two daughters. The painter of more than 250 famous personalities will mold the portraits of the Big Three into a historic canvas with Yalta conference scene as a background. The finished work will be hung in the United States Capitol at Washington.

Donates Entire Evening's Receipts to Civic Center Fund

On Thursday night, February 14th, the management of Orthe Theatre out of generosity, contributed the entire evening's box office receipts to the Hancock County Civic Center Fund, through members of the Bay-Waveland Garden Club. A substantial amount was realized and grateful appreciation is herein extended for this magnificent gesture.

Appreciation is also extended to Mr. Dan Russell, whose well chosen address, made all present understand just what this community building will mean to the general populace of the entire county.

The Hancock County Basketball Tournament will be held in Bay Hi gymnasium with the semi-finals and finals on Friday and Saturday nights.

Front Street Being Widened

A much needed improvement is taking place in the business section of Front Street in Bay St. Louis.

Workmen are tearing out three feet of the side walk on the east side of Front Street and will straighten lines of the side walk on the west side so that the street may be widened three feet more.

The Mayor and Commission Council is to be congratulated in this move. When cars are parked on both sides of Front Street from Main to DeMottuzin Avenue, it is very hard for two way traffic to make its way through the narrow space.

It is only to be hoped that instead of merely straightening the sidewalk on the west side that some action will be taken to probably get a couple of feet more in this space which can be added to the street.

CARNIVAL BALL TO BE HELD FRIDAY, MARCH 1 AT S. J. A. MEMORIAL HALL—8:00 P. M.

Do you know what the evening of Friday, March 1 will afford the public of Bay St. Louis? An evening of entertainment of the very best type. This is the night of the Carnival Ball which is sponsored each year by St. Joseph Academy's Mothers Club. This is the night for the young, the middle age and the older generation to have equal fun with equal recognition. This is the night when every body sees everybody else for everybody will be there.

There are so many reasons why this ball should be attended. It is the very supreme feature of entertainment offered by the town; it is a ball for all who love fun; it is noted for its brilliancy; last but by no means the minor reason it is for the St. Joseph Academy. An institution of learning for girls of which this town is proud.

This ball promises a more beautiful stage setting and more attractive court. Ever if this were not true if the court and stage were as attractive as heretofore they are well worth the time you spent there. And too, if you are not there you will not know who the Royal couple are. It is hoped that the St. Joseph Academy will be crowded to its utter capacity when the curtain rises.

Let I'll see you at the ball," be the greeting of all friends and friends of the school from now until March 1.

Hancock County Health Dept. Employs Mrs. Lavern Mollers Smith

While still with the draft board she accepted employment with the Veterans' Administration and was assigned to Gulfport. Her many friends welcome her back to Bay St. Louis.

The Farmer's Cooperative Creamery of Bay St. Louis is sponsoring a contest for the selection of a trade name for milk and its products processed and manufactured by the Association. The contest begins March 1, 1946 and will end April 15, 1946. A prize of $100.00 will be awarded to the person submitting the winning name for the Farmer's Cooperative Creamery milk and its other products. A second prize of $50.00 will be paid to the merchant and deliverman from whom the winning contestant purchases Farmer's Cooperative milk. The rules governing the contest are set out in full in the advertisement of the Farmer's Cooperative Creamery in this issue of the Echo.

Circulars are being distributed throughout the area served by the Creamery, and all merchants selling Farmer's Cooperative milk will have these circulars and the entry blanks for the submission of the name may be had when milk is purchased or the entry blank in the advertisement of the Farmer's Cooperative Creamery may be used.

The Creamery is a local institution owned and operated by Hancock County people. It is owned by the dairymen who produce the milk. These men with the cooperation of the public spirited individuals throughout the County who invested their money in this project are responsible for the establishing of this plant.

We should realize that each time we purchase a bottle of milk from the Farmer's Cooperative Creamery we are aiding a local industry. It means much to the development of our farming section.

Mrs. Olivari was of the old school clinging tenaciously to the type of sheltered life of the young girl of the Italy of her day and to the precepts laid down in the home of her youth. She was a fine type of the Christian woman whose life could well be patterned after and to those she left deep sympathy is extended.

O'Donohoe was high scorer for Stanislaus with 6 points.

SWEET POTATO TALK

Here are a few facts about sweet potatoes:

1. Pound for pound, the solids of sweet potatoes are equal to or better than those of corn for livestock feed.

2. Most varieties of sweet potatoes contain approximately 70% moisture content, and one prolific variety, the "Policy Processor" contains about 60%.

3. Compared to corn, the yield on a 30-year average is 12-15 bushels per acre in corn, and 80-100 bushels per acre in sweet potatoes of the table variety. This does not take into consideration the quantity of production represented by culls, odd sizes and crop-damaged potatoes.

4. The sweet potato is the one Southern crop which will match Northern corn in feeding value. It is well adapted to the South; fits well into a livestock program, and it will give high return per acre.

Prominent agriculturists say that dehydration will make it possible for the South to become a great livestock country.

The South has not gone into the raising of livestock much because it can't produce corn as abundantly or as cheaply as the Middle West. Its soil and climate do yield sweet potatoes easily and plentifully however.

Sweet potatoes have a high carbohydrate content, the same as corn. Tests have shown that cattle thrive on meal made from dehydrated sweet potatoes.

The farmers and dairymen of Hancock County will do well to take advantage of the fact that the dehydrating plant of the Hancock Stock Feed Company is located in their community. This new plant provides an outlet for a product that heretofore could be found only through a sometimes flooded retail market. The sweet potato may well mean the answer to a long and much needed source of revenue for our community. It is estimated that approximately $275,000.00 leaves Hancock County annually for live stock feed alone. We should be a much more prosperous community if the bulk of that money was kept in circulation among our own people.

CROSBY ANNOUNCES NEW HOME RADIO RECEIVERS

Monti-Carver Plumbing Company Local Distributors

Improved radio reception and the elimination of many minor listener annoyances have been made possible in the new postwar home radio receivers through advanced engineering and manufacturing techniques required in building military radio sets for the armed forces, R. C. Cosgrove, vice-president and general manager, The Crosby Corporation, stated in announcing Crosby's first group of postwar home radio receivers.

Nineteen different Crosby receivers are included in the 1946 group of sets recently revealed to the public through Crosby distributors from coast to coast.

First in importance among the features in the new Crosby radios is the patented "Floating Jewel" tone system, which has been improved and refined since its original introduction in the last Crosby sets to be made, prewar, just before all civilian radio production was stopped.

Flexible interpretation of radio reception is provided by the Crosby Master Tone Control, through which the radio listener can obtain, instantly, his choice of 64 different tone combinations.

Built-in signal wave antennae, continuous tone control, and world-wide reception on three broadcast bands are features of the new Crosby sets. In the group of 1946 Crosby receivers just announced are eight table models, two of which are radio-phonograph combinations. One of the combinations is equipped with an automatic record changer while the other has a manual record player.

Seven console receivers are included in the group. Of these, five are radio-phonograph combinations, ranging from six to ten tubes. Distributor for all of The Crosby Corporation's products in Bay St. Louis is Monti-Carver Plumbing Company.—P.O. Avt.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ACTIVITIES

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce held their regular meeting in the Bay High School Auditorium on Wednesday evening February 13th at 7:30 p. m. with a large attendance. There were several announcements made concerning industrial prospects that would affect the welfare of the entire county and from all indications the efforts of the men behind the Chamber of Commerce will begin to show itself in the immediate future.

After a lapse of a few months due to material shortage the HELEN ANN products has reopened at their location on Main street, with Mr. Robert Koch as general manager.

This firm is a subsidiary of the Chas. P. Wagner & Bro. and Papoose Products Co., with headquarters in New Orleans, La., and branches in Houston, Texas, Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, Penn., Mexico City, Monterey, N. L. Mexico and San Juan, Puerto Rico. Associate companies are located throughout the world.

They are manufacturers, Importers and Exporters of food products, also specialists in bakers supplies and machinery.

Mr. Koch states that the material shortages are slowly improving, in fact, so much so, that they have again been able to open their manufacturing facilities at this branch with the intention of enlarging and modernizing their plant as soon as machinery can be obtained. At the present time they are employing twelve people and as their business grows in this area the number of employees will naturally grow with it.

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce wants to welcome this new industry as well as Bob Koch to Bay St. Louis and extends to them our wholehearted support in this enterprise.

The baseball diamond and other facilities being erected for the Minneapolis Millers who will arrive here the early part of March is making steady progress. A majority of the lumber for the stands has been delivered and on completion will be able to accommodate hundreds of fans who are interested in baseball.

By the time of the next edition of this paper the SLOGAN CONTEST will have ended, therefore, if you have not forwarded your SLOGAN yet do so at ONCE. Six more days remain for you to earn that $50.00 prize. Opportunity is knocking at your door. Don't let it pass you by.

Stanislaus Wins Biloxi Golden Gloves Tourney

With four wins and two runners up in six bouts, St. Stanislaus captured the Golden Gloves Tournament held in Biloxi. All these boys have earned the right to appear in the New Orleans Tournament if they so desire. Winners of the N. O. Tournament are entitled to a trip to Chicago to try for National honors.

The Stanislaus boys' winning first places were Curran, Koch, Dacovich and Hodgson.

Concert By Local School Bands

Bay High and St. Stanislaus bands will offer the public a concert of good music at the Bay High gym on Tuesday, March 11, at 7:30 p. m.

This is an unusual treat and those who fail to attend will be counted among those who cannot appreciate good music. It is hoped that there will be a large audience. There is plenty of room in the gymnasium, so let's turn out and encourage these young people and let them know we like their good music.

Brother Ronald and C. F. Poncey are working together to give Bay St. Louis a new reason to be proud of its bands.

BASEBALL! BASEBALL!

Announcement was made of a meeting for our boys—aged 13 to 19, inclusive, who are interested in playing baseball during the approaching season.

HOORAY FOR GEORGE!

MISSISSIPPIANS generally will cheer the news that the U. S. Senate late Monday approved the nomination of George E. Allen, native of Tupelo, for a two-year term as director of the RFC.

Although he has lived "up east" and in Washington for a good many years, round-faced, easy going George Allen has kept in touch with Mississippians in every part of the state, and could probably drop in right now at almost any flagstop of more than 500 people and be immediately recognized by at least a dozen friends.

During the lifetime of the late Senator Pat Harrison, George not only found time to do plenty of odd jobs for his idol, but to keep his Mississippi contacts constantly advised of the efforts Pat was making in their behalf. Whenever the senator ran down to the home state to nail up a few political fences, or to swing around the state for a political campaign, George Allen was usually along—or in advance.

Somehow he always found time to do things for Senator Pat, and for his thousands of other close friends. Maybe that's why he always has about two dozen things to do at any specified moment—although he always gets them done.

Peter Edson, NEA Washington correspondent, drew a pretty good picture of George Allen in his nationally syndicated column of a day or two ago, in which he told about Allen's appearance before a Senate committee. It is reprinted herewith in case you're interested.

Best show put on in Washington in months was the appearance of 250 pound $50,000-a-year George Edward Allen, before the Senate Banking and Currency Committee. He was up for confirmation of his appointment by President Truman to be a director of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Allen mugged for the cameras like Fatty Arbuckle. He tried on his banker's scowl for the first time, and it fit pretty good. He rolled his banjo eyes like Eddie Cantor. He dropped gag lines and wisecracks faster than Bob Hope. All the while he oozed Southern charm like a stack of corn cakes and honey. In the end he had even surpassed Senators Taft of Ohio and Gene Millikin of Colorado rolling in their chairs with laughter, happier than a couple of repeats with double-dip cones.

It is this charm—or could it be his ability—that has won Allen his places as trustee and director of a dozen blue chip insurance and industrial corporations. In addition, he works for nothing for the American Red Cross, Boy Scouts, Warm Springs Foundation and March of Dimes. He also has been secretary of the Democratic National Committee and treasurer of the Democratic National Congressional Campaign Committee.

Incidentally, it came out that Allen is an honorary deacon of the Universalist Church of God (colored) of Washington, and that he has taken an active part in improving housing conditions for negroes in the District of Columbia.

Peering through his thick-rimmed, tortoise-shell glasses, Deacon Allen checked off the two-page, single-spaced typewritten list of his activities.

"What do you do in your spare time?" asked Senator Alben Barkley of Kentucky, acting committee chairman.

"You certainly are versatile," Senator Millikin admitted. Deacon Allen smiled prettily at that.

"That's very nice of you, Senator," he said. "This is the first enthusiasm I've found for me in this job."

Senator Taft went at it a little more seriously. Why had they picked him—Allen—as a director in all these companies? What did he do? Allen thought a long time on that one, gazing at the ceiling. Finally, in deadpan seriousness, looking straight at Taft he said, "I honestly think they want my opinions. I've been reelected. That's the remarkable thing."

Taft next wanted to know about Allen's appearance before the Federal Communications Commission in connection with Aviation Corporation's purchase of the Crosley radio station WLW in Cincinnati. Did Allen think his appearance influenced a favorable decision.

"I doubt it," said Allen with utterly disarming candor. "In fact, I think I was a little liability to them."

Concerning Allen's connection with Republic Steel, Taft asked if it wasn't to Tom Girdler's advantage to have Allen sitting in the White House. The deacon turned on his most cherubic, moon-beaming face and said, "Now you know Republic Steel wouldn't like anything done in the White House." Then he added, "Senator, you'd enjoy those directors' meetings. I'm voted down quite often."

When he first went to the White House to work on liquidation of war agencies for President Truman, Allen said they didn't have a desk for him. Finally he was moved over to an office in the State Department. That gave him a place to sit down. "I was getting pretty tired about then," Allen said. "I'm really inherently lazy," he confessed to the smiling committee. "But I've always been asked to do things and when I get into them and get interested, I do them."

He also had a job under Sen. Albert Hawkes, once. He wasn't fired he said, "but there wasn't any enthusiasm for me to stay."

Allen really wants to be a director of RFC, though, the worst way in the world. Deacon Allen would, in fact, resign all his directorships if that was necessary for his confirmation.

"But I'd hate to give them up," he said. "What if the Democrats lost out in 1948. I'd be in a terrible fix."—Jackson Daily News, Feb. 19.

EDIT WITH YOUR HEAD

WHEN you see something in an exchange that makes you a little bit sore, and you sit right down and write a full column of hot editorial or a full page of belligerent display advertising, you are not necessarily a great editor. The great editor ought to turn his topic over before he writes about it, and see both sides.

The offending statement may be someone's innocent error. It may even be your own error—in the way you may read it.

The editor who edits his paper with a chip on his shoulder will keep his paper interesting, of course, but he will not be leading his readers in the spirit of calm judgment in which an editor ought to lead.

If ever there was a time in the history of America when the spirit of calm judgment and reason should take control over the spirit of snap judgment and prejudice, that time is now.

There are two possible means of control for the explosive forces that threaten our future peace.

1. Force. This means fascism or military dictatorship. It means that we lost the war despite winning it.

2. Calm and enlightened public opinion, activated through government. The calmness is as necessary as the enlightenment. An intelligent, informed, earnest, good humored editorial leadership can serve the nation mightily in showing the way.

Maybe it won't sell so many newspapers. Some of our getting friends may sniff at calm journalism. But the day of "raise hell and sell newspapers" has about run out. Raising hell means appeal to passion. We have seen that tried as a national and world policy in Europe, and it has well-nigh ruined the world.—Iowa Publisher.

Makes Statement On High School Sororities and Fraternities

Mrs. C. C. McDonald member of the board of the National Congress Parents and Teachers and a member of the committee has released the following. The Mississippi Congress of Parents and Teachers has been requested to make a statement relative to high school sororities and fraternities. The Mississippi Congress cannot speak for its local units nor for the individual members of the state board; neither does it issue opinions regarding any specific local situations. It seeks only to interpret the organization's principles and policies which have been shaped by the local units, working through the state and national organization over a long period of time.

The policy that covers the organization's stand on high school sororities and fraternities is the same policy that governs its relation to all youth organizations. Recognizing the basic human need for a satisfactory social life and hunger for self expression, the parent-teacher association stands for that type of experience which develops in youth initiative, which offers channels for the exercise of varied talents, and which gives opportunity for appreciating and making friends with many types of people. "For every child the highest advantages in mental, physical, social and spiritual education" is a basic objective of the organization. The parent-teacher association has always stood for the age-old thesis of "the greatest good to the greatest number." Evaluated in the light of these fundamental principles any activity which promotes feelings of superiority, snobishness, or classiness, particularly before sound basis of judgment has had time to develop, is not for the best development of all youth, and is therefore not in line with parent-teacher principles.

The undemocratic teachers of high school sororities and fraternities are apparent. They seem to have the evils of Greek letter groups without the compensating good qualities, such as a basic set of ideals they honestly try to live up to, national supervision, and standards of scholarships and activity participation. Most such college groups live in houses and seek to provide a smaller circle similar to a family group, to help young people make the adjustment of leaving home. A house mother stands in position of chaperon and adviser. None of these features can apply to the high school groups, because while they are in school, they are not of the school.

The parent-teacher association stands ready at all times to work for conditions in the school and community which will make actual practices as democratic as ideals. The existence of undemocratic groups in the school or community is an evidence of failure and negligence of adults, not youth. The parent-teacher association assumes its share of blame for these situations. It therefore urges its local units to rededicate their efforts toward the creation of conditions where all youth may find creative outlets for the natural desire for friendship and social activities. It further urges its local units to seek opportunities to work with youth in establishing such social gatherings of individuals small enough to assure congeniality, yet open to all who desire to participate.

One college in Mississippi follows this procedure. Sororities exist but in such numbers that every student who desires may join. The trend must be toward the elimination rather than the construction of barriers in human relations, if tomorrow's citizens are to be able to work together for "One World." The parent-teacher association is the friend of youth and must assume its responsibility as counselor and guide in the development of every child.

Rotary Club Supports Proposed School Legislation

The Bay St. Louis Rotary Club, in its regular meeting on February 6, 1946, went on record as favoring the proposed legislative program of the Mississippi Education Association, and adopted the following resolution:

Whereas, there has long existed a need for raising the educational standards in the State of Mississippi, and Whereas, it is desirable to attract to the teaching profession men and women of the highest calibre and of recognized ability, and to encourage those now engaged in that profession to continue to render efficient service therein, thereby providing the boys and girls of this state with the qualified leadership which they deserve; and

Whereas, the legislature of the State of Mississippi, in regular session, convened at the capitol in the City of Jackson, Mississippi, has been requested to increase the common school appropriation to the extent of six million dollars; and Whereas, we are unanimously of the opinion that, for the purpose of meeting the need which has existed in this state for many years, it is essential that a greatly increased appropriation to the common school should be made, and that said appropriation is paramount to any other educational requirements and should have priority over the consideration of any other requests; now, therefore, Be It Resolved that we, the members of the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club, Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, do hereby request our representatives in the Legislature of the State of Mississippi to exert every effort, and to cast their votes for, as great as increase in the common school appropriation as is within the means of this state, even, if necessary, to the exclusion of any other program which may be advanced; and Be It Further Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to our representatives in the State Legislature and to the local newspapers.

Dr. C. M. Shipp Speaks On "Public Health and Christianity"

Brother Pierce, Ladies and Gentlemen:

It is with a feeling of gratitude and reverence that I stand here tonight. The invitation to address you briefly this evening in a house of worship implies the highest compliment you could pay me. Your humble servant accepted the invitation, to take part in this symposium with eager reluctance and ardent hesitation.

In our enlightened age, it is realized, that the relation between Christianity and the object and function of the Public Health Department, is simply the very essential one, that exists between faith and good works. The circumstance stressed throughout the Scriptures, that faith without good works avails us nothing; that it is impossible for an individual, to demonstrate the existence of his faith, save by the evidence of his works. A person who has faith and not good works to manifest it, is likened to a man who regards himself in a mirror, "and straightway goeth and foregoeth what manner of man he is."

Good works, of course, are defined affirmatively and negatively throughout the New Testament. They are defined, as "visiting the widows and fatherless in their affliction"; as giving a cup of water to a thirsty little one. In substance, as assisting the helpless and the needy; as favoring all who are in need of assistance. As advancing the welfare and preserving the health, usefulness and longevity of others, for no reward of the assistant than "the glory that is revealed within me."

In its scientific and unrelenting effort, to care for the health, to enlarge the usefulness, to preserve the happiness of the people, who constitute the special beneficiaries of Christianity, the Public Health Department, in its care for the children, and the removal of crippling defects; in its incessant effort to avoid epidemics and diseases—in short, in its guidance and support of civilization's long ascent toward better things for all, constitutes the very essence of the good works, without which the individual's announcement of Christian faith, is as "a sounding brass and tinkling cymbal."

The Public Health Department, in further conformity with Christian principles, does not let its right hand know what its left hand does. For that reason the populace frequently is unaware, of the Christian service to civilization and humanity. The epidemics and pestilences of the Middle Ages, failed to depopulate the world merely because transportation was so inefficient in that time the epidemic passed in one area before it was spread to another. While people marvel at the performance of aircraft, stream-lined trains, good roads and fast automobiles of today, they do not pause to reflect that were it not for the previous and superior attainments of the scientists engaged in public health work, these marvels of scientific performance, would be instruments of destruction through their tendency to spread diseases that long since have been conquered.

Public Health would be a sordid and hellish endeavor indeed, were it not adorned by the splendid virtues called mercy, charity, pity, and gentleness toward those in need of help. These are the jewels, so admirably worn by that character, effectively portrayed by John Bunyan. It gives a quality of lingering beauty to Christianity and typifies man's humanity to man.

Our civilization is raised to higher and nobler levels by a Christian education. This to be most effective, must be done by precept and example, this is the reason why medical missionaries, in foreign lands, hold advantage over others. They gain the confidence of their subjects, by rendering aid to the sick and lame. No more beautiful picture, ever came out of dark Africa, than the life and splendid service to a primitive people, than the immortal Livingstone, who's toil, suffering and sacrifice proved to be lasting benefit, to that

BAY HIGH SCHOOL PURCHASES P-40 FIGHTER PLANE FOR STUDY

On Plane: Pierre Dupaquier, James McDonald, Lucas Pucheu, Jr., Samuël Peterson, Mr. Marlin Magee, Rene Cuevas, Sylvester Loiacono, Alvin Ladner, and Harold Kranky.
Standing: Supt. S. J. Ingram, Ott Brockman, Clois Pucheu, Edwin Jr., William Maskew, and Donald Miles.

1ST PUBLIC HIGH SCHOOL IN STATE TO OWN PLANE

Startled pedestrians looked twice as they passed the school a few weeks ago and beheld a P-40 fighter plane situated in the front yard. This plane was purchased by the school for the mechanics class to dismantle and study.

The plane was flown to Keesler Field and shipped to the Bay by barge complete with a log of flying hours and action seen.

Bay High is the first public high school in Mississippi to own an airplane, and the student body is justly proud of its P-40.

savage land, the full fruits of his endeavors, are yet to be harvested.

Preventive medicine has moved from the stage of sewers, scavengers and ventilation through the stage of isolation: of the sick by official compulsion (and how people once rebelled at that) to the stage of personal instruction and physical examination. With every increase in scientific medical knowledge, we have less right to blame Providence when we are sick, and must increasingly blame ourselves. If we allow our bodies, or those of our children, to be warped by preventable maladies, we are guilty before God of misusing his gift, the talent he gave us, the strength he expects us to use in his service.

Health is one of the greatest blessings to mankind; indeed, it is an essential to human progress. Therefore, how to retain it, forms one of the pressing problems of the race.

The first element of success needed by one who has wisely chosen his calling is constitutional talent. By constitutional talent we mean the warmth and vigor imparted to a man's ideas by superior bodily stamina, by a stout physical constitution. Till within a recent period, body-culture if it may be so-called, has been neglected, and almost despised, in this country.

We are beginning to see that the body, as well as the mind, has rights that must be respected. We are learning by bitter experience, that if the mind which rules the body, ever forgets itself so far as to trample on its slave, the slave will not forget the injury, but will rise and smite the oppressor. We are discovering that though the pale, sickly student may win the most prizes in college it is the tough sinewy one who will win the most prizes in life; and that in every calling, other things being equal, the most successful man or woman will be the one who has slept the soundest and digested the most dinners with the least difficulty. It is folly, nay, it is blind ingratitude, to deny the value and importance of modern medicine, but it is equally foolish for the physician to regard men as mere physical beings and nothing more.

The divorce of religion and medicine has acted tragically on both the church and the healing art, provoking a revolt against medicine on the one side and a revolt against religion on the other.

Life today is noisy, highly geared with little rush in the midst of its rush; it tears people to tatters. Added to the confusion is the changing vision of spiritual ideals, which leave many folks bewildered.

No wonder we have swarms of nervous ills affecting us which tell terribly upon mental and physical health of the people.

All of us are living below our rights and privileges, using only a small part of our energies; and yet we have our religion, if we desire to die it and learn its laws, not only the truth which will set us from fear and its brood of horrors which becloud our vision and weaken our lives a remedy that will cure a part of the human ills.

There may be a revival of Christian morals when the church recovers its full Gospel of the abundant life which its founders brought from the shadowed heaven to our be-shadowed earth.

"THE STORK CLUB" AT A. G. & G. THEATRE SUNDAY - MONDAY

B. G. DeSylva Film, Sets
Lavish Story in Famous
Spot

Everybody who reads the news columnists and listens to the radio has heard about the world-famous Stork Club, the night spot of the world. Now, for the first time, it will be possible to get inside the Club—no matter where you are—as Paramount has produced a motion picture using that glamour spot for the background of an equally glamorous film.

The film is B. G. DeSylva's first independent production for Paramount, "The Stork Club," starring Betty Hutton in the role of a hatcheck girl to whom the most amazing things happen, because she saves the life of an eccentric millionaire. The millionaire is portrayed by Barry Fitzgerald and, according to advance reports, that genial gentleman has a role that is as well-tailored to his lovable characterizations as the one which won him an Academy Award in "Going My Way."

"The Stork Club," features in support of Miss Hutton and Fitzgerald, Don DeFore, Robert Benchley, Bill Goodwin, Iris Adrian, Mikhail Rasmussen, Mary Young. The film also introduces to movie-goers that new radio sensation, Ardy Russell, who not only knows how to put over a song, but who is expert with the drums, as well.

The story, packed with hilarious situations and aided by expert delivery of some of the catchiest music heard in a long time, revolves about Betty's predicament when her boyfriend, played by Don DeFore, returns from the war to find her living far beyond the means of a hatcheck girl. She and her girl friend, Iris Adrian, have been installed in a sumptuous suite, charge accounts have been opened for her in all the best stores, a chauffeured limousine is at her disposal—and all that booty has been bestowed upon her anonymously. Try and explain that to a suspicious lover!

In addition to the excellent story,

ORTIE THEATRE SUNDAY-MONDAY "THEY WERE EXPENDABLE"

An M-G-M. Film Starring
Robert Montgomery,
John Wayne

With Robert Montgomery and John Wayne topping a superb cast, brilliantly directed by Capt. John Ford, "They Were Expendable" comes to the Ortie Theatre Sunday and Monday as a courageous drama, packed with excitement and thrills, and depicting the heroic saga of the fight of a PT boat squadron against overwhelming odds.

Both Montgomery and Director Ford resume their screen work in this M-G-M adaptation of William L. White's best-seller novel, after an absence of four years in which each saw naval combat action.

Montgomery plays Lt. Brickley, commanding MTB Squadron Three. When Cavite falls, he and his second in command Lt. (j. g.) "Rusty" Ryan (Wayne) are anxious to prove the worth of their six PT boats and the dauntless quality of their crews.

The PT's are ordered to get a Jap cruiser in Port Binanga when their shelling makes the position untenable for U. S. troops. Ryan is held in a hospital with blood poisoning while two boats of the squadron torpedo and sink the cruiser. But one PT boat has been sabotaged and has to be abandoned and sunk.

Though he is in love with Army nurse, Sandy Davy (Donna Reed), Ryan compels the doctor to release him before his arm is healed. Four PT's are left on the day that news of Singapore's fall comes. Brickley and Ryan evacuate high ranking officers to Mindanao, whence they are flown to Australia.

Steadily the Japs whittle down the PT squadron until only one boat is left, then Brickley sees his last boat made useless. He, Ryan and two others are flown out to Australia. These four veterans of the early Philippines fighting are to train other PT crews, so that they will be ready when the proper time comes to join other forces in helping General MacArthur keep his famed promise—"I shall return."

Montgomery offers a penetrating and finely-shaded portrayal as the skipper whose unrelenting faith in the worth of his PT boats goads his men on to heroic gallantry. It is a role that stands up with the best of his earlier work and again demonstrates him to be one of the screen's sterling performers.

Wayne, as his second in command, is natural and convincing and gives his role a quiet humor. Donna Reed is appealing as the nurse who refuses to forsake her charges even in extremity of danger, and Jack Holt and Ward Bond are others worthy of mention in a large cast.

SELF-REGULATION

Earns Retailers Respect

The following letter received by this Committee from a Mississippi beer retailer is proof of the helpful results of this industry's Self-Regulation program:

"I have been in the retail beer business here at the same location for the past ten years and I can honestly say that until I began hearing from you I had never had any suggestions as to how to improve conditions in my place and didn't know much about the laws governing the sale of beer.

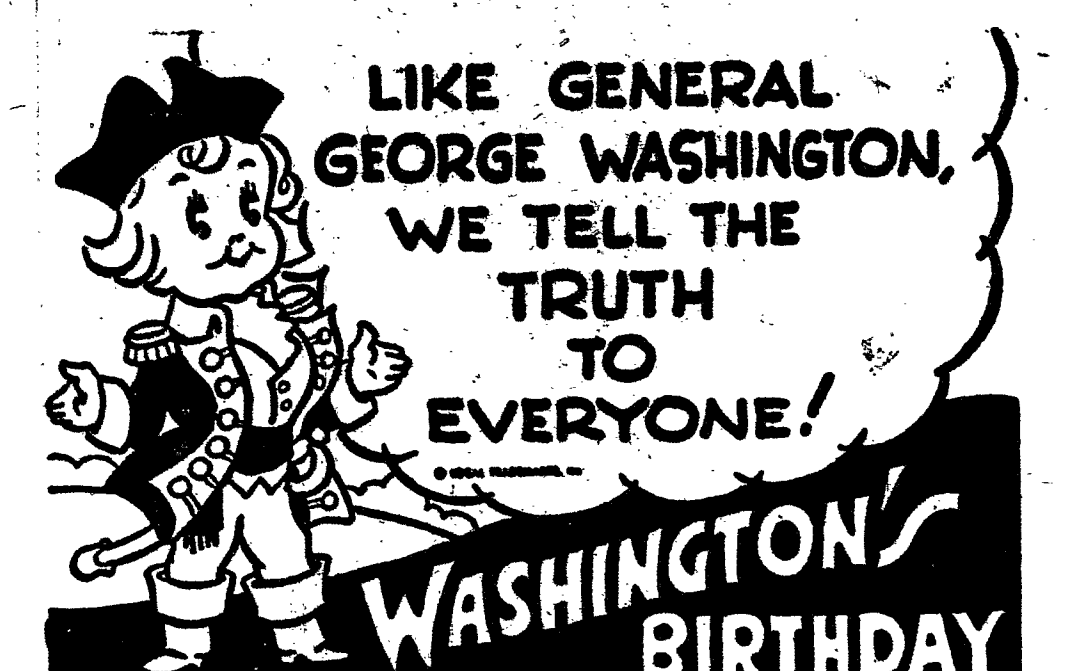

"I get your letters, bulletins and other pieces of literature containing helpful suggestions for conducting a beer business on a high plane. I am, and I'm sure hundreds of others like me are, appreciative of what your organization is doing for the beer business.

"As a result of your efforts I think the dealers have a higher regard for the business they are in and have a greater desire to run it as it should be."

We urge you to patronize only those retailers who regard their retail beer permit as a privilege they will not abuse.
